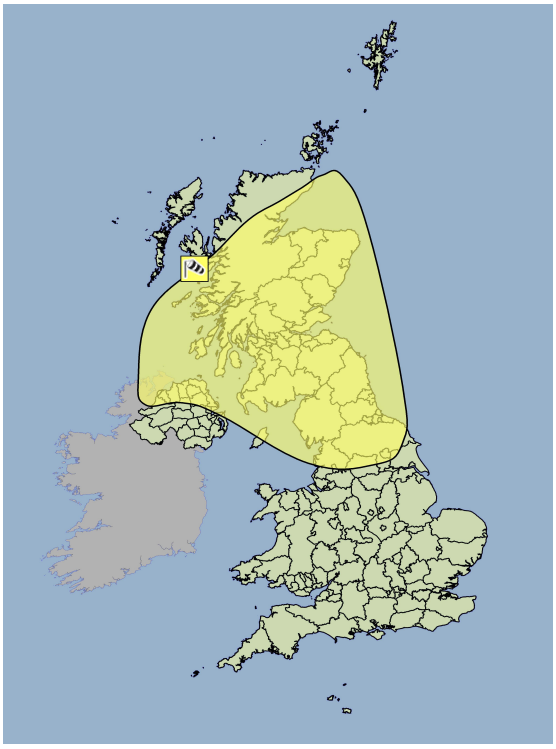
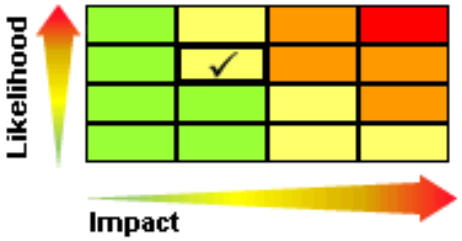
National Severe Weather Warning Service





Chief Forecasters Assessment
Conditions look conducive for another rapidly deepening area of low pressure to run quickly east-northeast to the north of the UK during Monday. There remains some uncertainty on the exact track of this developing low pressure system, and therefore the areas at greatest risk of disruptive winds. Therefore, this warning will be reviewed again on Sunday for both coverage and likely impacts.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Alert of Wind

Valid from 03:00 on Mon, 12th Jan 2015 until 18:00 on Mon, 12th Jan 2015

Another rapidly deepening area of low pressure is expected to move east-northeast just to the north of Scotland during Monday. Gusts of 50-60 mph are likely widely through the warning area, with gusts as high as 70 mph in western exposure, and possibly to the east of high ground.

The public should be aware of the risk of disruption to transport.
